PAUL CALLAGHAN
WINEMAKER

Paul studied in Glasgow for a Business degree and went on to work for Oddbins wine merchants, there began his love of wine.

This was cemented with back to back vintages in the Hunter Valley at Brokenwood starting in 2000. In-between harvesting he went back to selling fine wine for Vintage Cellars in Sydney. Paul then travelled to Italy where he stayed for three years working at De Conciliis, a small family winery in Campania.

Moving to Margaret River in 2005 Paul started working at Cape Mentelle as a cellar hand, he was particularly interested in working with Cabernet Sauvignon and Chardonnay. Studying as a post grad in Oenology at Curtin University Paul moved on to become a winemaker for Cape Mentelle.
