GEOGIANA SAUVIGNON BLANC

2012

WINE TASTE, TYSON STELZER , OCTOBER 2012

93 POINTS

“Predominantly from the cooler southern half of Margaret River, this delightfully refined sauvignon is one of Georgiana’s most gracious expressions yet. A beautiful perfume of fragrant elegance focuses in on granny smith apple, grapefruit and lemon blossom. The palate faithfully continues the theme of honed, zesty poise and consummate restraint.”

“I am really enjoying Sauvignon Blanc as the weather improves. It is the crisp, cool, fresh summer flavours that make it ideal drinking now. This punchy little number is another fine example from our friends from the Margaret River region. With tropical notes on the nose, there’s also an inviting lemon sherbet aroma. Full flavoured with great citrus tang, there is a nice balance with acidity and it leads to an enjoyable, refreshing finish. Perfect with tempura squid served with a sweet and sour dressing. weather improves. It is the crisp, cool, fresh summer flavours that make it ideal drinking now.
