ZAC ROGERS

ASSISTANT WINEMAKER

Growing up in northern New South Wales, Zac Rogers developed a passion for winemaking from an early age. At just 15, he knew he wanted to pursue a career in the wine industry, drawn by the unique combination of science, agriculture, and craftsmanship. Zac attended the University of Adelaide, where he completed a Bachelor of Viticulture and Oenology.

Since graduating, Zac has worked across renowned wine regions, including the Barossa Valley, Yarra Valley, Hunter Valley, Napa Valley, and Champagne. He spent his formative years in the Yarra Valley, gaining hands-on experience across both the winery and vineyard while working alongside respected industry professionals and refining his technical and practical winemaking skills.

Today, Zac is proud to call Margaret River home. Focused on producing wines that express the distinct character of the region, he remains committed to lifelong learning across every stage of the winemaking process.

When he's not in the winery, Zac enjoys spending time outdoors, fishing, travelling, exploring great food and wine, and making the most of everything the South West has to offer.
